II About the strategy

Date published	2014 July
Signed by a minister	Yes
Duration	132 months
Number of pages	55

The approach: How does the department plan to use the broader environment in which it exists (element 1) to leverage its strengths and embrace its weaknesses (element 2) so that it can provide benefits in accordance with its vision (element 3)?

The approach is to identify the key areas where private and public stakeholders can support alternative housing for Māori in the medium to long term.

Read more about the GDS's vision on page 3.
Is the strategy illustrated? Yes, see page 3.

III Assessing stakeholder usefulness

If a public servant new to the policy area had an hour to read this GDS, would they be able to understand the approach (element 4) and the implementation and review processes (element 5)?

The key points of the issue are very well covered in this GDS. Its context and purpose are introduced clearly, as well as its time frame (2014-2025). It discusses its links to other GDSs, which is extremely useful knowledge for a public servant. It is very specific about the time frame for its objectives. It has a separate outcomes framework on page 40, which is very useful for those involved in implementation.

If an uninformed member of the public had 30 minutes to read this GDS, would they be able to understand the purpose (element 3), the approach (element 4), the implementation and review processes (element 5) and how this approach fits with the broader goals of government (element 6)?

The overall purpose of the GDS is clear as it features good articulation of its problem statement and is very well-supported with evidence and statistics. It would benefit from more specific information on funding and on how its progress will be monitored.
