II About the strategy

Date published	2001 April
Signed by a minister	Yes
Duration	NK
Number of pages	21

The approach: How does the department plan to use the broader environment in which it exists (element 1) to leverage its strengths and embrace its weaknesses (element 2) so that it can provide benefits in accordance with its vision (element 3)?

The approach is to identify gaps in current policy concerning older people in order to prioritise 10 areas of focus which will incorporate positive aging principles into government departments' work.

Read more about the GDS's vision on page 6.
Is the strategy illustrated? No.

III Assessing stakeholder usefulness

If a public servant new to the policy area had an hour to read this GDS, would they be able to understand the approach (element 4) and the implementation and review processes (element 5)?

The key points of the issue are clear, and the outcomes sought are well explained. However, the GDS fails to discuss how the outcomes will be achieved in any detail. The structure of the GDS is confusing. The discussion of threats and opportunities in the strategic focus area is comprehensive.

If an uninformed member of the public had 30 minutes to read this GDS, would they be able to understand the purpose (element 3), the approach (element 4), the implementation and review processes (element 5) and how this approach fits with the broader goals of government (element 6)?

The overall purpose of the GDS is clear, and the public would understand the strategic outcomes. The GDS discusses how it was developed, but it also contains information which does not seem relevant or useful to the GDS. The review process is well explained, enabling the public to keep track of the GDS's progress.
